

Climate Change Temporalities:
Narratives, Representations and Practices

A conference on humanistic approaches to climate change

University of Bergen, Norway,

Funded by the Research Council of Norway.

Wednesday, August 11

11.00-11.30 Welcome

Kyrre Kverndokk, University of Bergen

The Auditorium

11.30-12.30 Keynote lecture:

Phenomenal time: a field philosophy for more liveable worlds

Michelle Bastian, University of Edinburgh

The Auditorium

12.30-13.30 Lunch break

13.30-14.45 Parallel sessions 1

Politics, planning and time 1, Conference room 1

The non-human 1, Conference room 2

14.45-15.15 Break

15.15-17.00 Parallel sessions 2

Local practices, Conference room 1

Cli-fi and imagined futures 1, Conference room 2

Thursday, August 12

10.00-11.00 A conversation about the project “The Future is Now”.

Anders Ekström, Uppsala University in conversation with Kyrre Kverndokk and Marit Ruge Bjærke, University of Bergen.

The Auditorium

11.00-11.15 Break

11.15-12.30 Parallel sessions 3

Politics, planning and time 2, Conference room 1

Landscape and knowledge, Conference room 2

12.30-13.30 Lunch break

13.30-14.45 Parallel sessions 4

Politics, planning and time 3, Conference room 1

The non-human 2, Conference room 2

14.45-15.15 Break

15.15 -17.00 Parallel sessions 5

The project The Future is Now 1, Conference room 1

Anthropocene aesthetics 1, Conference room 2

Friday August 13

10.00-11.45 Parallel sessions 6

The temporality of solidarity, Conference room 1

Cli-fi and imagined futures 2, Conference room 2

11.45-12.45 Lunch break

12.45-14.00 Parallel sessions 7

The project The Future is Now 2, Conference room 1

Anthropocene aesthetics 2, Conference room 2

14.00-14.30 Break

14.30-15.30 Keynote lecture:

Genre differences, polyphony and role attribution in climate change narratives

Kjersti Fløttum, University of Bergen

The Auditorium

15.30-15.45 Closure